

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

On behalf of the Organizing Committee of the International Conference on Hydrology and Water Resources, I would like to take this opportunity to express my deepest appreciation to all those who contributed to the planning and organization of this conference. In particular, I would like to thank the members of the Technical Committee, International Advisory Committee, and Indian Advisory Committee for offering valuable advice and assistance. Many organizations provided financial support and others helped promote the conference. This support is sincerely appreciated. In addition, I am grateful to those who are keynote speakers and who are chairing the sessions as well as those who are presenting papers. Finally, I would like to warmly thank all participants for coming to New Delhi to take part in the conference. I know all of us are looking forward to benefitting from the keynote addresses and individual paper presentations as well as actively participating in the sessions.
